RAIN AIDS CROPS ALTHOUGH MANY ARE NOW STUNTED

Agriculturalists Throughout County Say More Is Needed

POTATOES BENEFITED

Spinach, Beans, Carrots and Celery Are in Poor Condition

The rain of the past two days has done much to refresh the crops in Bucks County and for some it will mean saving them, in the opinion of farmers. In regard to other crops the rain came too late and will merely refresh them.

At the big Starkey farms in the Penn's Manor section it was stated this morning that "all crops are pretty well stunted due to the lack of rain. The rain will refresh them but that is about all."

"The beans are in bad shape and stunted. Spinach is very poor but the carrots and beets are okay. Condition of celery is also poor."

On the Starkey farm there are 300 acres of asparagus which is not affected by the drought because asparagus is a deep rooted plant.

Reports from the Henry C. Pickering farm in the vicinity of Langhorne stated that the rain, although light, had been beneficial to the crops.

That section apparently had a heavier rainfall than some other localities. At 9:30 Wednesday evening there was a light rain and again about midnight there was another shower. However, the greater amount of precipitation took place early yesterday morning. This section also had a light rain Sunday afternoon.

It was agreed at the Pickering farm that the potatoes were badly in need of moisture. Corn, it was said, had not as yet felt the effects of the drought very seriously.

Although wells in that community showed no sign of becoming exhausted of their water supply, it was said all streams were quite low and some of them were practically dry.

Commenting on the rain, Dean C. L. Gooding, of the National Farm School at Doylestown, said the rain without any question had been very helpful, particularly to the potato crop, but the amount of the rainfall was far from sufficient. Dean Gooding said a steady rain for an entire day would be of great help to farmers. It was said by Dean Gooding that corn and potatoes suffered from the drought and had there been no rain for another week, the potato crop would have been ruined. Apples, he said, had also been benefited.

Allen M. Rush, farmer on the Dr. Storm Fruit Farm, near Perkasie, also stated that while the rain had been very helpful, much more is needed. He, too, said corn and potatoes had been suffering. The apple trees have not been badly in need of rain. The outlook for the apple crop at the Storm farm seems to be very promising.

County Agent William F. Greenawalt, although not having had an opportunity to make a general survey, agreed that the rain had been very beneficial to the farmers. He pointed out that last night's rain will serve as a holdover for the potatoes for several days.

It was stated by Mr. Greenawalt that because of its good root system the corn has not been suffering greatly. The ears have not as yet set and consequently the corn does not need so much moisture at present.

Last night's rain, said County Agent Greenawalt, was very beneficial to the lawns. Many of the grass plots began to show the effects of the drought.

"Just dandy" was the expression of Walter A. Bishop, of near Fountainville, one of the leading potato growers of this section of the State, when asked about the rain. Mr. Bishop said the rain had been a help, but was too late to be of much help, if any, to the Cobbler and Green Mountain varieties. The crops of these two varieties, he said, have been made. It is the later yields, he said, which will be helped. This includes the Michigan Russet Rural variety.

Not only, according to Mr. Bishop, have the late variety of potatoes been helped, but the rain has done some good to the corn and tomatoes.

In conversation with L. P. Denniston, plant pathologist at State College, Mr. Bishop stated that Mr. Denniston observed that this section of the State had suffered more from the drought than most other sections.

BRISTOL W. C. T. U. AT FALLSINGTON MEETING

Fifteen Members From Here

and Meeting

INTERESTING PROGRAM

Wednesday fifteen members of Bristol W. C. T. U., including Mrs. Carrie Headley, Mrs. George Ardrey, Miss Gertrude Pope, Miss Jane Rogers, Mrs. Thomas Lawrence, Mrs. William Betz, Mrs. John Brehm, Mrs. Harry Arnold, Mrs. Anna Winter, Mrs. Lydia Watson, Mrs. Mary Hilborn, Mrs. G. A. Coons, Mrs. Warren Thompson, Miss Mabel Goodwin and Miss Martha C. Hughes, enjoyed a pleasant and profitable day with the Fallsington Temperance Union at their annual meeting and institute in which members from Langhorne, Morrisville, Newtown, Yardley and Bristol participated.

Mrs. Hartman, president of Fallsington Union, presided and opened both morning and afternoon sessions with prayer and scripture lessons appropriate to this time of crisis. At the morning session Miss Mary Winder, an associate secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, gave an interesting account of the efforts of the peace groups, who were in Chicago at the time of the national party conventions, endeavoring to influence delegates toward progressive peace measures, with the discovery that many of those entrusted with framing governmental policies were sadly ignorant of facts and conditions.

Miss Winder last year spent several months in Europe, studying conditions and attitudes in the various countries in relation to the great movement toward universal accord.

Mrs. Hartman at the hour for non-tide prayer, which was offered by Mrs. Lucy Harper, county president, urged the daily observance of this silent prayer chain by members everywhere. "Tis always noontime somewhere and across the awakening continents our prayers are rising evermore." "More things are wrought by prayer than the world dreams of."

At the afternoon session, after a delightful covered dish luncheon served on tables in the churchyard under the shade of beautiful old trees, two sketches were very well presented—"Unto the Least of These," by members of the Morrisville Union, and "Am (Continued on Page 4)

The Hibernians moved into a triple tie for second place in the Lower Bucks County League last night on Sullivan's field by taking the Bristol Odd Fellows into camp by the score of 3-1. The Fellows and Paper Mill teams shared second-place honors with the "Hibs."

The fray was a pitchers' duel between Dave Ennis and Ike Watson. Ennis was found for seven hits and Watson for six. However, three of the Hibernians' safe wallows were for extra bases and figured in the scoring.

In the third the winners scored all of their runs. Sullivan was put out on a fly to Andy who made a wonderful catch. Ennis tripled to right. McClafferty fanned. Dougherty slammed a home run to left field, scoring himself and Ennis. Nappy was passed. Dugan scored Nappy with a sharp double to left. Roe fled out to first. Roe's error and Still's single scored the losers' only tally.

CROYDON, July 22.—Bunching their hits in the third and fourth innings, the Hulmeville nine, winners of the first half, took undisputed possession of first place for the second half, downing the Croydon A. C., 7-1.

Haefner, Rockhill, and Comly with two bingles each, led the winners' attack on Carp. Rockhill had a homer and single, and Comly a two-bagger and one base hit.

Devlin gave the losers but five hits.

TULLYTOWN.—Tullytown Paterson Parchment Paper Company stood in the running for the second half of the Lower Bucks League by winning their third straight. This time Bristol A. A. was the victim and the count was 6-4. It marked the sixth straight defeat for Johnny Mulholland's team. (Continued on Page 6)

Police Requested to Halt Marriage of Trenton Pair

DOYLESTOWN, July 22.—When Stephen Klidza, 22, a Trenton butcher living at 25 Asupink street, and Lucille Noble, twenty-one, of 21 Evans avenue, Trenton, applied for a marriage license at the Bucks County Court House yesterday they told Deputy Clerk Jacob Shelly they were both of age.

They were granted a license and then asked the way to a place where they could get married. The name of the officer to perform the ceremony was written on the application and the couple was instructed as to the location of his office.

Up until noon they had not shown up anywhere in Doylestown to be married.

Shortly after the license was granted, the Doylestown State Police received a telephone call from Trenton from a man who said he was Walter Klidza, an uncle of the boy, claiming that Stephen is only eighteen and that the girl, with whom he left Trenton without permission at 7:30 in the morning, is only sixteen.

"They must have sensed something was wrong and lost their nerve or else went to another town in Bucks county to get married," Clerk Shelly said, when informed of the telephone call. "They both swore they were over twenty-one and the boy at least certainly looked older than twenty-one." Klidza is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Klidza and Miss Noble is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Noble.

LOCAL AND STATE POLICE IN SEARCH FOR BANDITS

Check Motorists Along Highways and at Bridge Approach

STOP AND SEARCH CARS

Bristol police and County Detective Anthony Russo joined with State Police yesterday in the search for the bandits who held up and robbed the Morton National Bank at Morton, Delaware County.

Immediately upon receipt of the flash over the police teletype Chief Jones notified Detective Russo and assigned Officer Ferry to co-operate with State Police from Morrisville. The Chief and officers were stationed along the Bristol Pike and at the approach to the Burlington-Bristol bridge. All cars unless the occupants were known, were halted and the occupants closely questioned and cars searched.

After releasing a stream of tear gas that blinded a cashier and a girl depositor yesterday, three bandits stole $1967 from the bank.

It was the first time, police said, that tear gas has been used by bank bandits.

The bandits escaped in a green sedan which later was found abandoned about three miles from Chester.

Flashes sent over the teletype called upon every police department to place officers out on the highways in an effort to get the thieves.

Canning Fruits For Use Of Needy During Winter

Throughout the counties of Delaware, Montgomery, Chester and Bucks there are many communities where local organized groups, with the local branch of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross cooperating, are now putting up, or preparing to do so, surplus vegetables or tree fruits suitable for conserving.

This is being done at central points such as school and community kitchens and in homes where to their usual number of jars more are added, to be given away to the needy later on.

The garden planted with seeds distributed by local organizations and Red Cross branches number about 3,000 in the four counties of Delaware, Montgomery, Chester and Bucks, and are aiding materially now, but the conservation of the fruits and one or two vegetables easily prepared is needed for the winter, it is stated.

FREE ANOTHER SPAN ACROSS DELAWARE RIVER

Bridge Between Lumberville and Raven Rock
Now Free One

PURCHASE PRICE $25,000

The toll bridge spanning the Delaware River from Lumberville, Bucks County, to Raven Rock, N. J., has been acquired by the interstate Commission for the Elimination of Toll Bridges, it is announced today.

The purchase price was $25,000, shared equally by Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The settlement was made at the Penn Trust Company and the money was forwarded by check to the Lumberville Delaware Bridge Company, owners of the span.

Assistant Attorney General Theodore Backes, of Trenton; Edward J. Pierson, secretary of the commission; C. P. Adams, of the Pennsylvania attorney general's office, and Louis Focht, engineer of the Interstate commission, transacted the negotiations with officers of the Lumberville Bridge Company. The latter group was represented by District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, of Bucks County.

The Lumberville span is the sixteenth bridge freed in the past ten years on the upper Delaware. State Senator Clarence J. Buckman, of Langhorne, was the leader in the movement that cleared the upper river of toll bridges.

Dr. Frank Lehman Speaks At Meeting of Rotarians

Dr. Frank Lehman addressed the members of the Bristol Rotary Club yesterday and took as his topic, "The Making of a Physician."

It appears that recently the advice of Dr. Lehman was sought by a friend as a guide for his son. The questions to be decided were: "What does the medical profession offer as to remuneration, happiness, and so forth?"

There are other professions, according to Dr. Lehman, which offer a larger percentage of return in the way of remuneration. The personal comfort standpoint is not very great as a physician rarely has any time to call his own. But the service which is given to humanity brings happiness and content of mind to the doctor.

The talk was much appreciated by the Rotarians and Dr. Lehman was thanked for his address.

PA. CHAIRMAN OF GARDENS SPEAKS TO COUNTY WOMEN

Mrs. Frank Kaiser, Scranton,
Guest at Glen Grove
Farm, Langhorne

"YEAR 'ROUND INTEREST"

Nearly 200 Meet for Garden
Program; 13 Clubs Represented

(By Staff Correspondent)

LANGHORNE, July 22.—Glen Grove Farm, home of Mrs. Henry Parry, was the mecca yesterday for nearly 200 women—lovers of flowers and members of garden sections of women's clubs throughout Bucks county.

Guest speaker on this occasion was Mrs. Frank Kaiser, Scranton, state chairman of gardens, Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs; and additional features throughout the day were numerous.

The women as guests of Mrs. Parry and the garden section of Langhorne Sorosis on this occasion, came from 13 clubs, namely: Bristol Travel Club, Buckingham Women's Club, Hatboro Club, Doylestown Nature Club, Doylestown Village Improvement Association, Langhorne Sorosis, Lower Makebold Mothers' Club, Newtown New Century Club, New Hope Women's Club, Perkasie Women's Club, Women's Club of Southampton, Warrington Women's Club and Yardley Civic Club.

Chairs were arranged on the lawn of Glen Grove Farm, beneath the stately old trees of the estate. Mrs. Arthur Hagar, president of Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, was introduced by Mrs. Parry, the county officer extending greetings to the group.

"Gardening, A Year 'Round Interest" formed the basic subject for the address of Mrs. Kaiser, the talk radiating to touch many points of garden interest. "Gardeners are sincere in their enthusiasm," was the first point brought out. "The women gardeners we meet are sincere in point of view of the program work for the clubs, and also from a personal angle. We find the common meeting place of women to be the garden, because no matter what group the women belong they find they are on common ground when discussing the propagation of flowers." The Bucks Countians were told that in mingling with women of foreign extraction the latter can teach much regarding the cultivation of plants.

Referring to garden visits Mrs. Kaiser stated such are most valuable, as there is developed a feeling of understanding among the women, and through such visits all learn of the varieties and use of varieties of blooms. Touching upon the solving of difficult color problems, the state chairman of gardens, told that flowers of certain shades, rightly placed, are appreciated to a greater extent. "When we see certain difficult shades in the flower realm placed in ideal locations as we visit gardens, we appreciate those certain flowers more."

Flower clinics were advocated. "The services of the county farm or garden agent can surely be engaged occasionally, and the club members can through him be benefitted and be shown how to readily recognize the harmful pests, fungi, etc., and learn how to battle them." Mrs. Kaiser asked that the women set time aside for studying of the theory of gardening.

Among items of information dispensed were: Use of hot water for reviving wilted blossoms; points on "hardening" flowers for shows; proper manner of cutting and splitting in order that stalks will readily take up water. Mrs. Kaiser stated that in her estimation the present financial situation is helping the larger clubs to a certain extent, as where clubs are of such size that programs of non-participating nature have been conducted previously and speakers hired, now members are taking part and saving expense. "Those members are learning more, and benefiting. The clubs are benefiting too."

To develop appreciation of local gardens a suggestion was given that pictures be taken of attractive gardens, these then enlarged, made into slides, and titled. "From a group of slides that you will build up, you will soon find there will be splendid picture subject matter for almost any kind of a garden talk," the speaker continued. Use of appropriate garden music was suggested in conjunction with regular meetings.

"Through gardens women can feel a kinship. Women have played with their children in their gardens they have met their sweethearts in the gardens, and women have helped to cultivate the gardens." Suggestions for local clubs included: Public planting of trees, shrubs, or flowers; wide use of garden notebooks and card indices; garden book weeks in public libraries; grafting which will prove both interesting and profitable.

The second speaker for the morning was Mrs. Everett Griscom, of Roslyn, bird advisor of the state federation, and whose bird sanctuary is visited by hundreds annually. "You can't have fine gardens such as we've heard of (Continued on Page 4)

EXAMPLE

It would be the height of folly and of doubtful economy for the president, vice-president and cabinet members to take a furlough as other Federal servants are doing under the economy program, and the constitution and rulings of the supreme court forbid making them take a salary cut during their terms of office. But these excuses will not prove a bar to economy even in such high places.

President Hoover, Vice-President Curtis and all cabinet members will voluntarily take pay cuts along with the other government workers, who will take theirs in the form of furloughs except where their constant presence is needed, in which cases pay cuts will be substituted.

For the remainder of his term the president will work for $60,000 a year. Mr. Curtis will take a proportionate cut and members of the cabinet will draw 15 per cent less from the national treasury as compensation for their public service.

The important thing here is not the saving of $40,000 a year of the people's money. It is the exemplification of civil service even at personal sacrifice. These men are obedient to the spirit of the economy bill not because they must but because they realize more than anyone else the value of every dollar saved for the taxpayers.

NO PENNSYLVANIA STAMP

The special stamp privilege has been abused to the point where the postoffice department has found it necessary to check the multiplication of stamps beyond the bounds of reason, but there are already indications that the department is now going to the other extreme.

When it refused the request for a special stamp commemorating the 250th anniversary of the founding of Pennsylvania, it established a precedent applying to every state and it placed state anniversaries in the same category with purely local events, which are often observed for commercial purposes only.

It would seem that the establishing of the province in Penn's Woods was an event of national interest meriting some national observance now. And what more fitting and effective way than by the issuance of a commemorative stamp?

Perhaps the bureaucrats consider the establishment of principles of civil and religious liberty embodied in Penn's Great Law and providing part of the foundations for the constitution of the United States a matter of small importance and of little public interest. No doubt they would consider the founding of the Plymouth Colony of less importance than the building of a new postoffice cage in the Podunkville general store.

Is it not one of the duties of the government to take advantage of every opportunity to disseminate knowledge of such historic incidents as the founding of these principles and ideals for which the nation stands?

Shoemakers say men's feet are growing larger. You place burden enough on top of a thing and it's bound to spread out at the bottom.

Financial wizards are great men who know how to run things so long as common people work and spend their money to keep wheels turning.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY COWICI-FRIEDE INC. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

At 11:30 on New Year's Eve, Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes Lola Carewe, known as "The Night-Club Lady", widow of Gaylord Gifford, the cotton millionaire is the "higher-up" responsible for numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffle the police. Though her husband died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. She arrives at the Mayfair accompanied by Vincent Rowland, an attorney. At Lola's urgent request, Colt joins her party. She voices the fear that she will not leave Mayfair alive, adding that her dog and parrot were mysteriously killed. And, tonight, she received a note threatening death before three a. m. Accompanied by detectives and one woman operative, Colt goes with Lola to her apartment.

CHAPTER FIVE

IN silence we rode up the elevator shaft to the pent-house which Lola Carewe called her home, an aerial perch high in the New York skyline like the nest of some predatory bird. On the twenty-second floor, our way led down a long, heavily carpeted corridor, mysterious in its dim light, to the foot of an iron stairs leading up to the pent-house door. Still without talk, we began the ascent of those steps. Four times the iron staircase turned in its climb to Lola's dwelling place. At each landing, I noticed that Thatcher Colt held back the party while he turned first. Dougherty, puffing and blowing, kept pace bravely with him; Lola followed, with Vincent Rowland, Harris, and myself bringing up the rear.

At the top of the stairs, we found the detail from Headquarters. In charge of the party was Lieutenant Fallon, of Colt's personal staff, with Detectives Langley and Schwartz, and a group of lesser known men, with one of our girl operatives, Dorothy Lox, an ample housewife brunette, later famous for her help to Colt in the Chinatown Seven Murders case.

As Fallon saluted, he reported: "I got the building plans from the office downstairs; they think it's a burglar scare. We can guard every window and door of the pent-house, except the ones that open on a sheer drop to the street, with plenty of men for the terrace and roof—and you can use Miss Lox inside."

"Let me see the lay-out."

The chief studied the paper—a printed diagram showing the floor plans of the pent-house.

"Very good," he said, after a moment. "Let's go!"

Waving aside the key Lola offered him, Colt rang the apartment bell. Fallon saluted and nodded toward the other detectives, who scattered toward the places assigned to them. All approaches to the pent-house were now under heavy police guard.

The door was opened by a short and rather stout Chinaman, with a completely bald head, and a face inexpressibly homely. The yellow man was wearing a house-robe of green silk, loose-flowing, girdled with a rope sash and ornamented with a pattern of dragons wrought in golden thread. Rich apparel for a man-servant! He was a bizarre apparition, our first encounter with Lola Carewe's singular household. I wondered if Colt would not compare him with a pensive sea-elephant in repose. Standing with his yellow hands folded at his thighs, and his large head slightly swaying from side to side, the Oriental butler said, evenly and distinctly:

"A happy new year to you, madame, after the custom of the forty-eight states of this independent country."

"Thanks, Chung!"

The mistress of the pent-house seemed to accept her butler's ro-tund salutation as merely a casual greeting. I wondered if he pattered around these rooms all day long making heroic speeches like that. Or whether he was just another player in a show that Lola Carewe was staging—for what possible purpose?

We were in a small reception hall and the front door of the apartment had clanged shut, closing us in. The air was stiflingly warm. Later we were to find the whole apartment overheated. Chung took our wraps and waddled to a closet. We were about to follow our host-esses down the broad corridor, when the Commissioner said:

"Miss Carewe, you are not to be in any room alone at any time. When I cannot be with you, Miss Lox here must attend you."

With a martyr's smile, Lola agreed.

"Anything else?" she inquired.

"I shall wish to make a tour of your apartment, terrace, and roof. I want to see every room. Then I should like to meet all the members of your household."

Before Lola could reply, a young woman in maid's costume hastened down the corridor.

"Mother awake, Eunice?" asked Lola quickly.

"She retired to her room hours ago. The door is closed."

"And Christine?"

"Still out on her New Year party, madame."

"Awaken my mother, at once. Tell her not to worry, but the police are here. They may want to talk with her. Now, Mr. Colt—as the maid darted off—"we shall begin your tour of my little home. This door leads out to the terrace."

The apartment formed an immense rectangle, two sides of which opened on the flag-stoned terrace, now deep in slush. Barrowing a pocket torch from one of the detectives, Thatcher Colt led the way out into the raw and gusty night. The exploring circle of his electric lamp came to rest on the icy rungs of a perpendicular ladder fixed into the bricks of the nearest wall. Still in top hat and evening coat, the Commissioner quickly mounted the slippery ascent and reached the roof. Bent forward against the wind he personally examined every square foot of the roof. Descending again, he traversed all the area of the terrace. But he found nothing. Indeed he could feel secure for there was not the slightest evidence in the slush of one human footfall. The area above and around the pent-house was empty in the clasp of the storm.

Shivering and wet, we returned inside, leaving a man on the sleety roof and two on the storm-swept terrace. Lola was at the door and led us down the corridor and into the living-room.

We found the living-room a place of chaste elegance and angular splendor. The walls and fireplace made a discreet background for the furniture which, so Vincent Rowland revealed, had been specially designed by Lola herself. The four walls of that large chamber were covered with a heavy linen of natural hue, a light ecru color, the dull uneven weave of which seemed to smother the lamp-light in a warm embrace. Nun's veiling draped the windows, a little deeper than the color of the walls, and matching the upholstery of the chairs and couch. The velvet carpet of raisin brown was also without a sheen, so that the coverings of the furniture, walls, and floor all held and subdued the illumination. There was an esthetic honesty everywhere apparent, in the square lines of unfinished wood, waxed to give a mellow appearance of age. A real fire burned on the brick floor of the fireplace.

Standing by the fireplace to warm himself, Colt was about to light a cigarette, but suddenly he dropped the still lighted match into the fire. Then from the mantel the Commissioner lifted a crumpled white object in his hand.

INDEPENDENTS WIN OVER THIRD WARD NINE

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
ST. ANN'S vs. A. O. H.
(St. Ann's Field)
CRESCENTS vs. EDGELY
Result of Last Night
INDEPENDENTS, 5; THIRD WARD, 4
(By T. M. Juno)
In a ball game in which a total of but eight hits were made, the Independents surprised the ball fans by beating the highly-touted Third Ward team by scoring three runs in the fifth, to win, 5-4.
"Reds" Cummons and "Joe" Antonelli both hurled superb ball and most of the tallies scored in the fray were the result of misplays by their support. Four hits were made off each pitcher.
It marked the third straight reverse for the Pikers and dropped them to a tie position with the winners for fifth place.
The score was 4-2 when the "Indies" took their fifth bat. P. Antonelli struck out. Calla singled over second. R. Tosti walked. T. Tosti also drew a pass and the sacks were loaded. Riola made a fine stop of Joe Tosti's bouncer but did not recover in time to get the runner at the plate but tossed Tullio out at first. Antonelli walked and the bags were loaded for the second time. T. Tosti was caught off second and run down. R. Tosti then made a dash for the plate and was caught in a run-down which terminated when Hibbs failed to catch Riola's throw and the tying and winning runs, R. Tosti and T. Tosti, crossed the plate.
Not a single extra base blow was made during the melee.

NEW TYDOL LEADS IN ANTI-KNOCK SAYS Electric Ear*

First in knock rating... Proved by 3-day road test of 17 gasolines... Same car. Same load. Same hill... and the New Anti-knock TYDOL won every triple-checked trial.

First in power... Because the less a gasoline knocks, the more power it develops. When the knocks leave, extra power comes into your motor. That's why New TYDOL gives you ceaseless, silent, super-power at no extra cost.

First in mileage... Because more power gives you more miles. And because New TYDOL gives you all the other premium qualities that help to put extra miles in every gallon.

Fill up today. Pick out your hill. Make your own road test for both anti-knock and power. You don't need a month—or a week... to convince you. One trip will do it. Or one tankful. Stop at the orange-and-black TYDOL pump and make your test run today.
